To Whom It May Concern:

I write in response to the February 27, 2003 issue of the Federal Register detailing the formation of a Cranes and Derricks Negotiated Rulemaking Advisory Committee (C-DAC). In reviewing the membership list provided in the notice, it appears that C-DAC does not have sufficient representation from the Government/Public Entities. Therefore, I ask that you reconsider the request of Richard E. Lawhun, Director of the Construction Institute (CI), as outlined in his letter of September 13, 2002 (copy attached), and invite Matthew J. Burkart to serve on C-DAC.

Mr. Burkart is an active member of CI and the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE). He serves on two committees – Construction Site Safety and Crane Safety on Construction Sites – and participated in the development of an ASCE publication on crane safety, as well as ASCE Policy Statements on crane safety and construction site safety. Mr. Burkart would be an excellent addition to C-DAC representing a public entity that is actively involved with issues related to crane safety.

Mr. Burkart's resume and summary of experience are attached for your information. Please feel free to contact him at 215-322-6285 should you have any questions or require other information.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

Brian C. Kaub, P.E.
President
